

Go Go Dragons!

Contents:

1 3-piece running track game board, 4 dragon characters,
4 character stands, 4 rectangular dragon cards, 56 coloured dragon discs

Setting up

- Insert the dragon characters into the matching character stands.
- Assemble the running track game board and place it in the centre of the table. Note: for a shorter game and/or younger players the centre game board track piece can be removed.
- Shuffle the coloured dragon discs and spread them out dragon face down on the table.
- Select at random eight (or six if playing with the shorter board) of the coloured discs and place them, dragon face down onto the circular spaces on the running track game board. See 'To play' for how and when these are used.
- Each player chooses a dragon character and a correspondingly coloured rectangular dragon card (they keep hold of the rectangular dragon card so they remember which dragon they have chosen to support).
- They place the dragon characters on the matching coloured arrows on the running track.
- Note: if playing with less than four players, all four dragon characters should still be used.

Object

To be the first dragon to cross the finish line!

To play

- The youngest player starts by turning over a dragon disc from the table. They then move the dragon, which matches the disc colour, forward one space on the game board.
- Whenever a player's dragon moves forward a space, they encourage it by saying "Go Go (red/blue/yellow/green) Dragon!" and hold up their rectangular card in support.
- Play then passes to the next player.
- The discs on the game board come into play each time the dragon that is in last place reaches the row with a face down disc on it. That disc is then turned over and the matching coloured dragon is moved back one space.
- Play continues until a dragon has crossed the finish line.

The winner

The winner is the player whose dragon crosses the finish line, to reach the matching coloured star, first.
